

CRYPTOX

Cryptox is a cryptocurrency tracking and portfolio management app template designed for building modern digital asset applications. The template enables users to monitor live cryptocurrency prices, market trends, charts, and market capitalization data across thousands of digital assets. It includes features for portfolio tracking, wallet monitoring, NFT viewing, and asset management through an intuitive interface. With its scalable architecture and well-structured code, it provides a strong foundation for developing crypto tracking, portfolio management, and digital asset applications.
