

DELISELL

DeliSell is an app template designed for building second-hand marketplace platforms where users can buy and sell used products efficiently. It enables location-based discovery of nearby listings, helping users find relevant items quickly. The template supports structured category and sub-category browsing for improved searchability, along with detailed product listings to ensure clarity for buyers. Sellers can easily create and manage listings through a simple workflow, while an integrated chat system enables direct communication between buyers and sellers. Built with a clean, modular, and scalable architecture, DeliSell ensures smooth performance, easy customization, and multi-language support for developing modern resale marketplace applications.
