

HANDYZONE

Handyzone is a comprehensive on-demand services app template designed for building platforms that connect customers with service professionals for household and local services. The template includes dedicated User and Provider modules, enabling seamless service discovery, booking management, and service delivery. Customers can browse service categories, schedule appointments, make secure payments, and receive real-time booking updates through an intuitive interface. Service providers can manage service listings, track appointments, organize schedules, and customize professional profiles to streamline daily operations. Built with a modern user interface, scalable architecture, and well-structured codebase, Handyzone delivers reliable performance and easy customization. It serves as a strong foundation for developing home service, handyman, cleaning, maintenance, and other on-demand service marketplace applications.
